Dear Prof. Reddy,

Sub: Recognition of the Marketing and Strategy Department of ICFAI Business School, Hyderabad a constituent of The ICFAI Foundation of Higher Education, as a Centre of Excellence in Marketing and Strategy.

The Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung, India office has been working in India since 1980s, on promotion of social democracy values: freedom, justice and solidarity. The Economy of Tomorrow (EoT) work line at FES primarily looks at transformative discourses dealing with three mega-trends in India that is energy transition, urban transformation and digital automation. Gender justice, digital justice and climate justice are integral to the work.

FES is working towards creating a coalition of progressive actors who can bring innovative ideas on table for creation of a socially equitable, resilient and smart development model for India, one which would serve as a roadmap for similar narratives globally.

FES India office, through EoT, has had the pleasure of working with the Marketing and Strategy Department of ICFAI Business School (IBS), Hyderabad on several occasions in the past. Noteworthy has been the cooperation on a 3-year long research project called Big Green: Scaling up Framework for Green Livelihood Initiative. This project had active collaboration between FES and Marketing and Strategy Department at IBS. The research was carried out in several regions of India and finalized in documentation of the entire process and creation of a framework. This is one of the pioneering works of FES and Marketing and Strategy Department at IBS since it combines the questions of sustainable environment, green economy and equality, all in one. The project was completed under a budget of approximately 16,000 Euros contributed by FES.

Another recent undertaking has been the Digital Transformation of Informal Sector Workers through EdTech. This has been done in collaboration with the Marketing and Strategy Department and the Centre of Excellence for Digital Transformation (CeDT) at the IBS. Here in again, the idea is to weave the livelihood security issues of informal workers with that of current digital revolution. A cross sectoral exploration of ground-realities, best practices, stakeholder mapping has been done. The project was completed under a budget of approximately 7,000 Euros contributed by FES.

Going forward, it is intended to undertake an in-depth research of the sector from street vendors perspective and their digital transformation. The following facets of digital integration and digital justice can be studied – personal transformation (quality of life, change in status, societal outlook etc.), business opportunities (upward mobility, skill building, green jobs etc.) and regulation (supporting policies, suitable ecosystem, stakeholder compatibility etc.). This can be done for street vendors operating in the travel and tourism sector, as this has been one of the worst hit sectors during pandemic and still continues to suffer heavy losses. Within this, the idea would be to understand the complexities and opportunities in four different circuits - religious circuits, historical circuits, nature and wildlife circuits and heritage circuits.

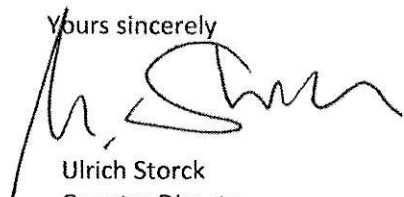

The support, extended by the Marketing and Strategy Department as well as CeDT, in terms of personnel, time and facilities at the campus for these collaborative endeavors has been encouraging. The Department and Centre also ensures that their network of experts and professionals in field are merged with that of FES, resulting in high-quality engagements and discussions at consultations.

The faculty members of the Marketing and Strategy Department involved in the project are thoroughly invested in the project, managing organizational as well as content-related duties, without compromising on the outcomes of the project. They involve their students and alumni in the entire project cycle, for providing them with the right exposure to concurrent issues and engaging the upcoming generations in these crucial debates from start.

The established and trusted relationship of the Marketing and Strategy Department, the Centre as well as the IBS with senior government officials, policy makers, industry and corporate leaders makes the uptake of inclusive and progressive discourses within these stakeholder groups, much easier.

The Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung, is pleased to recognize the Marketing and Strategy Department of ICFAI Business School, Hyderabad a constituent of The ICFAI Foundation of Higher Education, as a Centre of Excellence in Marketing and Strategy.

Yours sincerely

Trice is a platform that enables and recognizes social initiatives within a community of residents. This is done by allowing the community to engage and transact with each other. In doing so, Trice triggers a local economy based on trust, mutual respect and sense of a shared responsibility towards society. Currently, Trice communities include 200+ apartment complexes in Hyderabad, home to 100K+ residents. At Trice, our focus is not just on the residents of the community, but also on the ecosystem that they foster. This ecosystem includes: 1) People providing services within the community, whether it's a household help or a driver or a security guard 2) Nearby service providers and vendors, be they a local roadside food outlet, a meat shop or a newspaper vendor 3) Local people who get employment by providing services to these community, like delivery boys or sorting personnel

Trice has collaborated with the Operations and IT department of IFHE to run experiments to check the differential effects of various promotional campaigns on actual purchase behavior of customers. The sample would be obtained from actual users/subscribers of the mobile application. A between subjects' two-way experimental design would be conducted with actual subscribers and customers of the mobile application "Trice" with a 2 X 2 design (1. Type of Endorser: Micro-Influencer vs. Other Customers, 2. Remuneration Motivation: Present vs. Absent).

A/B testing of the "Trice" application is another project on the anvil. The application features will be changed and the differences in customer behavior pre and post the change will be studied.

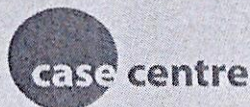

These projects will have a budget of approximately INR 400,000.

The support, extended by the Operations and IT Department as well as CeDT till now, in terms of personnel, time and facilities at the campus for these collaborative endeavors has been encouraging. The faculty members of the Operations and IT Department involved in the project are thoroughly invested in the project, managing organizational as well as content-related duties, without compromising on the outcomes of the project.

Trice Systems is pleased to recognize the Operations and IT Department of ICFAI Business School, Hyderabad a constituent of The ICFAI Foundation of Higher Education, as a Centre of Excellence in Operations and IT.

Dear Sanjib

Recognition to ICFAI Business School Case Research Centre as a Centre of Excellence

A regular and varied supply of stimulating and contemporary cases is an essential component of the case method pedagogy, which is recognised and adopted as a key element of academic programmes at leading Business Schools around the world.

With a repository of over 6,000 case studies made available to global customers through The Case Centre, the IBS Case Research Centre has established itself as a world leading case development institution.

Case studies researched and developed by the CRC are adopted by institutions such as London Business School, London School of Economics, Oxford Said Business School, Cambridge Judge Business School, HEC Paris, HEC Montreal, SDA Bocconi, and in India by schools including the IIMs in Kolkata, Indore, Rohtak, Nagpur, and Visakhapatnam; XLRI Jamshedpur. Corporate users include Boston Consulting Group, Bain Consulting, PwC, and KPMG.

IBS CRC authors fill the top three places in The Case Centre Top 50 Bestselling Case Authors List for 2020/21. In total CRC authors fill seven places in the list, next only to Harvard Business School with nine authors.

The IBS CRC case method training and extension programmes enhance the skills of faculty and research scholars at business schools and institutions adopting the case pedagogy. The programmes include professional development workshops at conferences including those of The Academy of Management, and the North American Case Research Association.

IBS CRC case studies have been published in leading management textbooks in Europe, the USA, and the UK.

IBS CRC has won more than 100 international awards and prizes from institutions including The Case Centre's annual awards and competitions.

The Case Centre, the independent home of the case method, is pleased to recognise ICFAI Business School Case Research Centre as a Centre of Excellence in case study research, writing and production.

Dr Tamma Koti Reddy
Professor & Head
Department of Economics
IBS Hyderabad, India

Professor Koti Reddy

Sub: Letter of Recognition of Department of Economics at ICFAI Business School Hyderabad

It is my honor and privilege to write this letter in appreciation of the Department of Economics at IBS-Hyderabad. I had the distinct pleasure of visiting IBS-Hyderabad to teach a Public Policy course of the MBA Program during November 2017.

I was genuinely impressed with the superior intellect mixed with the humane approach of the faculty of the department. As I pen this letter of appreciation, my initial impression of IBS Hyderabad has magnified manifold.

The evidence of the scholarship of the Economics faculty is manifested in every aspect of research -a prolific list of publications in top-notch journals listed under ABDC ranking and Scopus, numerous services to the profession in multiple roles, and recognitions and awards for intellectual achievements. The Department conducts top class annual conferences like the Applied Econometrics Conference, Doctoral Theses Conference, besides co-hosting international conferences of the Academy of International Business, The Indian Econometric Society, etc.

The Department of Economics deserves high marks in all three segments of traditional evaluation measures—research, teaching, and service.

Sincerely yours

Prof Pundarik Mukhopadhaya

Re: Letter of Recognition of Department of Finance & Accounting at IBS Hyderabad

Dear Dr. Satish,

It is my honor and privilege to write this letter of appreciation to the Department of Finance & Accounting at IBS-Hyderabad. I had the distinct pleasure of visiting IBS-Hyderabad in March 2020 to conduct a workshop on Finance Research for the research scholars and faculty members of the Department. I was exceedingly impressed with the superior intellect mixed with the humane approach of the faculty of the Department.

While I was generally aware of the high scholastic credentials of the Department and the University before my visit, my positive impressions were magnified several folds afterwards. The hard work of the Department, especially in adding value to the students and contributing to high quality research, is admirable. I am aware that many of the faculty members have published their research papers and case studies in top quality journals including in ABDC A* journals. Through my interactions with the scholars, I came to appreciate the rigor of the PhD program. The systems and processes put in place to present and exchange research ideas, along with a genuine effort that focuses on applications based research, would definitely go a long way in enhancing the reputation of the Department and making it a global destination of academic excellence.

Given these observations, I recognize as exemplary the contributions of the Department in the areas of teaching and research and wish all those concerned the very best. Many thanks.

Recognition of HR & Soft Skills Department of ICFAI Business School, Hyderabad

The Indian Society for Training & Development (ISTD) has long been known for its leadership in the area of training and development through its diploma and training programs conducted across India. ISTD has been associated with the ICFAI Business School (IBS) in conducting various seminars/webinars jointly for the past couple of years.

During our association with IBS, we are impressed with the exemplary work being carried out by the Department of HR & Soft Skills in grooming the UG, PG and PhD students for excelling in their chosen careers. We note that the department has a diverse pool of distinguished faculty members with a blend of academic and industry experience. We are happy to note that the department offers a wide range of specialised courses such as training and development, competency mapping and assessment, employment laws, global HRM, HR analytics, positive psychology, performance management and reward system, organisation development and corporate communication.

The research output of the department in terms of seminars delivered, conferences conducted and published research papers in quality peer reviewed journals is impressive. Publications in Scopus indexed and ABDC ranked journals is highly appreciated. Organizing six international conferences in the last six years is creditable.

We have noted that your major thrust is applied research in areas that include organisational citizenship behaviour, positive psychology, emotional intelligence, career management, high performance work practices, HR outsourcing, competency mapping, employee branding and work-life integration, communication skills, among others.

The department is also endowed with Consulting Editors to quality journals like IUP Journal of Soft Skills, IUP Journal of Corporate Governance and IUP Journal of Organizational Behaviour.

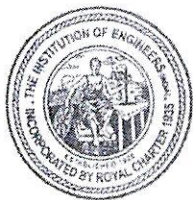

Considering the quality of research work and the highly committed faculty resources, ISTD would be pleased to collaborate and work together in the areas of HR and Soft Skills. We look forward to a long and fruitful association with the Department in organizing conclaves and conferences, joint research and management development programs and other activities of mutual interest.

Considering the exemplary work done by the Department of HR & Soft Skills, the ISTD is pleased to recognise the department as an outstanding contributor of management professionals in the areas of HRM, training and development, talent management, leadership development, etc.

INDIAN SOCIETY FOR NON-DESTRUCTIVE TESTING

HYDERABAD CHAPTER

Professor J. Mahender Reddy,
Vice-Chancellor,
ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education,
Donthapally, Shankerpally,
Hyderabad – 501203.

Dear Prof. Reddy,

Sub : Recognition of the Faculty of Science and Technology, The ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education, Hyderabad.Reg.

The Indian Society for Non-destructive Testing (ISNT) is the society for NDT professionals and practitioners which offers invaluable resources, information and linkages for industrial quality development and professional development to its members.

The objective of the Society is to promote the awareness of NDT Science and Technology through education, research and exchange of technical information within the country and internationally to its members and other professionals using NDT. The family of ISNT has more than 5000 strong members. It is a diverse and dynamic family of professionals representing NDT technicians, scientists, engineers, researchers, manufacturers and academicians – all dedicated to improve product safety and reliability. These specialists represent virtually every industry and discipline that may benefit from NDT technology.

ISNT holds periodic seminars and workshops on topics relating to NDT methods and applications, as well as exhibitions displaying cutting edge NDT products and services.

ISNT keeps the members informed about technological advances, new products, certification and training and international linkages and ISNT through its 20 chapters spread across India, serves the NDE enthusiasts for their personal and professional growth and has the following wings.

- National Certification Board The National Certification Board has been formed for the certification of NDT professionals in India and has been periodically conducting Level-I and Level-II courses through ISNT chapters. NCB-ISNT has been recognized by ASNT as the NSO in India and has been periodically conducting Level III ASNT exams right from 1986. NCB-ISNT plays key role in international harmonization of training and certification.
